Political Philosophies In Education Is Topic

Harold Taylor, former president of Sarah Lawrence College, will speak on "Conservatism and Liberalism in Education," next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall.

The lecture is third in a series sponsored by the Public Exercises and Visiting Lecturers Committee. In 1945, at the age of 30, Mr. Taylor became the youngest college president in the United States at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N.Y.

Mr. Taylor got his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of London when he was 23. He taught philosophy at the University of Wisconsin to students only two or three years younger than himself.

After his retirement from Sarah Lawrence College in 1959, Mr. Taylor traveled throughout Asia and Russia for six months on a special Ford Foundation grant conferring with writers, students, educators, political leaders and other intellectuals on problems of the Asian countries.

Mr. Taylor has lectured in such major institutions of the country as Yale, Vassar, Columbia, the University of Michigan and the University of California.

He has served as chairman of

NEW DINING ROOM OPENS

The Treasure State room of the Lodge opened this week.

the Committee on Peace Research, a group composed of six scientists, and is a director of the Peace Research Institute, a newly-formed organization.

During the past year he was host on the national ABC network program, "Meet the Professor."

Mr. Taylor is the author of more than 200 articles in books and journals of philosophy and education. Two of his books are "On Education and Freedom" and "Art and the Intellect."

In his lecture, "Conservatism and Liberalism in Education," Mr. Taylor will point out that the political and social changes that affect the country are directly related to the educational system.

Degree Committee Lacked Objectivity, Johns Claims

The committee that studied the request of Eastern Montana College of Education, Billings, for a liberal arts degree wasn't objective in its decision, MSU President Robert Johns said yesterday.

An objective committee couldn't include state residents, Mr. Johns said in a press conference. He defined a person capable of making an objective decision as being an expert in the field under study and as being indifferent to the results of the study.

Mr. Johns said the members of the committee would have been unfair to their full-time positions if they had been objective.

The committee members are John E. Tenge, Billings banker, chairman; Herbert L. Steel, president of EMCE; Leon Johnson, acting president of MSC; Burton Boyd, Glendive; Frank C. Abbott, academic vice president of MSU and Dr. Frank McPhail, member of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education.

All but Mr. Abbott and Dr. McPhail voted in favor of giving EMCE the liberal arts degree.

The committee decided that a liberal arts degree for EMCE is feasible, but that it should not be considered until a similar program for Montana State College is explored.

Is MSC anxious to give liberal arts degrees?

"They must be," Mr. Johns answered with a smile.

Is there a need for MSC to give liberal arts degrees?

"Not under the Master Plan," he replied.

If MSC does get the liberal arts degree, will it cut enrollment at the University?

"Probably."

The Master Plan is the report made to the Board of Regents last year explaining the role of each unit of the University system.

When asked if he thought Central Board should take a stand on the proposed degrees for Bozeman and Eastern, Mr. Johns replied:

"Traditionally over the country student stands on issues like these haven't had much effect."

"But go ahead and discuss it," he added. "It won't hurt anything."

Mr. Johns said he will not send a representative to the open meeting next Wednesday night where plans for a new Student Union building will be discussed.

"It's your union, isn't it?" he asked. "I'm not sending anybody. You can invite someone if you want."

Young Journalists Meet

More than 300 high school students from throughout the state arrived here this morning to discuss techniques and problems encountered in producing high school newspapers and yearbooks.

Delegates to the 14th annual conference of the Montana Inter-scholastic Editorial Association were welcomed in speeches by MSU Pres. Robert Johns and Nathan B. Blumberg, dean of the School of Journalism.

The two-day program began with an address by David C. Beeder, chief of the Montana Associated Press. A former general supervisor at the Chicago bureau of the Associated Press, he will discuss opportunities and trends in the journalism profession.

Other speakers for the conference are Edward B. Dugan, Dean Rea, Ronald Richard and Philip Hess, MSU School of Journalism; Neil R. McFadden, publications adviser at Havre High School; George Gogas, yearbook adviser at Missoula County High School; Mrs. H. H. Francis, publications adviser at Arlee High School;

Warren J. Smith, publications adviser at Joliet High School; Gene Stock, representative of the American Yearbook Co., and Duane W. Bowler, managing editor of the Billings Gazette.

Tomorrow's events include presentation of the 16th annual Gold Key Award to an outstanding Montana high school journalism instructor by Dean Blumberg. Rating certificates for high school yearbooks will be given by Prof. Brier.

In a ceremony Saturday, the late William McClure Bole, Great Falls journalist, will be installed in the Montana Newspaper Hall of Fame.

Schedule Planned For Parents' Day

Parents of University students will receive letters this week inviting them to attend Parents' Day, Nov. 16.

Activities planned for Parents' Day include a football game between the Grizzlies and Colorado, campus tours conducted by Spurs and Bear Paws and a banquet in the Cascade room of the Lodge.

MSU President Robert Johns will speak at the banquet, and the Jubileers will entertain, according to Nancy Wulf, chairman.

The Masquer's will present "Blood Wedding" that weekend.

Seivers Pamphlet on Sale

Copies of Bruce Seivers' recent Kaimin column "Germany: It's Somebody's Problem" will be on sale today at 3:30 at the Lodge Desk.

Mr. Seivers, a political science major at Stanford University, has spent two years of study in Europe under special Stanford programs. He is a graduate of Missoula County High School.

The five-part series published in the Kaimin has been put into a 12-page pamphlet. One hundred copies are available. Money received from the 25 cent charge will be used to cover costs of printing.

This is the first time the Kaimin has offered this kind of special publication service to its readers.

ORIENT BOUND—The 11-member cast of "The Fantasticks" and Firman H. Brown Jr., drama department chairman, will leave Sunday from the Missoula airport on the first part of their Oriental tour. Working under a 700-pound baggage limitation, the department has reduced all of the props for the play to pieces which will fit into boxes

The Corpses on the Senior Bench

Last Wednesday we burst out of the warm confines of J-206 and strode manfully toward the Lodge.

But we did not go far before we noticed that we kept bumping into people.

"Pray tell," queried we brightly of an emaciated and disgruntled-looking chap, "for what, forsooth, is the long line?"

He growled at us.

With his stomach.

He was hungry. He had been waiting to eat, he sobbed, for two and one-half days.

The meal for which he had begun to stand in line was Monday lunch. He did not expect to eat until Saturday morning.

"The food lines," we concluded, warding off the wretch's ravenous charges, "often are long."

Then a chilling thought struck us. What will happen when winter comes? How many stiff and misshapen corpses will we find, frozen hard against the senior bench?

We sighed a deep sigh, and, wiping a tear, trudged on—to the Chimney Corner. —whw

Nelson Fritz Explains Rules for Homecoming Parade Floats

To the Kaimin:

Referring to the parade competition controversy, if someone has to take the blame for the misunderstanding I believe that my shoulders are broad enough to bear this responsibility. First may I state that no float was disqualified, and aside from appointing the judges I had nothing to do with the judging itself.

Back in 1959 I conceived the idea of member participation. In that year's parade one living group had about eight of their members dressed as rabbits following their float. In the same parade another living group had built a ship and had about twelve or sixteen of their group dressed as sailor boys and sailor girls following their float. I could see that when members of the various groups participated by following the float it extended the length of the unit and thus created a longer parade. The following year we asked for member participation and set the number at sixteen. For four years, 1960, '61, '62 and '63 the judges have taken away points from any float that did not have its full complement of members participating. Last year, 1962, the number of participating members was reduced from sixteen to ten and the instruction sheet contained the following paragraph:

"Last year several good competitive floats were eliminated from final judging BECAUSE the organization did not have a full complement of member participation. This year 10 members of the organization will be considered a full complement. These ten participating members appearing on the float or marching with the float will be considered by the judges."

This year's instruction sheet read as follows:

Judging: All floats will be judged and points awarded as follows: Conforming to theme, aesthetic value of float, float construction, originality, member participation (10 members will constitute full complement). Note: The ten members of the organization can be stationed on the float or parade alongside of float in costume as part of the float's theme."

No mention has ever been made that up to ten, or in previous years up to sixteen, participating members will be considered. The judges have always deducted points whenever the floats have not had their full complement of participating members.

Perhaps in the future we can eliminate any controversy by awarding, say 20 points for member participating and allow 2 points for each member participating then if one float has its full ten members they will receive 20 points, 5 members 10 points, etc. I am glad that these controversies and questions arise for it certainly gives us a better basis for setting up judging points in the future.

The judges are not biased and have no connection with any of the participating organizations. Each year the names of the judges are given to the press after the parade but I am not sure that they were published this year. For the information of the students and all interested this year's judges were:

Rev. L. A. Gruman, University Congregational Church; Ray Reid, advertising division, Missoula Mercantile; Phil Lewis, Phil's Paint Spot; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Catlin, Catlin's Studio; R. L. Arnsberg, manager, Montgomery Ward, and Jerry Ward, manager, Sears, Roebuck.

I am certain that the burning of the float had nothing to do with the judging, for this same thing occurred several years ago when some small kids set fire to a float parked beside the Theta Chi house. I am sorry that after four years of explanations and warnings the member participation was not clearly understood. This along with other judging points can and will be rectified.

When the Police Department compliments the University, as it did this year, the parade must have been a success. Win, lose or draw in the competition, everyone participating did a marvelous job (even to kidding themselves about their float construction). My sincere thanks to everyone who helped make the parade a success and especially to those students who worked behind the scenes and receive no public acclaim.

Foresters 'Spark' Activities on Campus

By RAY DOMINICK
Kaimin Staff Writer

The Forester's Ball is just one example of several projects by MSU foresters which ignite the spirits of university students.

The School of Forestry is 50 years old and the Forester's Ball is a 47-year tradition supported throughout Montana. But the ball is not the only thing of which the forestry school can be proud.

The school exists to teach young men the "scientific management of forests and forest lands for the continuous production of goods and services." That the school is achieving this goal was evident when Sen. Lee Metcalf and Pres. Robert Johns agreed last week that the school is one of the best in the country.

The official beginning of the school was 1913 when the state legislature established it as a unit of the University. Courses in forestry were offered in 1909.

When the school opened there were 42 students and a faculty of two. The present enrollment is 375 students with a faculty of 15.

Until 1924 the school was housed with the journalism school in a two-story frame building called "The Shack." In 1924 the present building was built and officially dedicated Pinchot Hall, after Gifford Pinchot, a famous conservationist in the early 1900's.

Lubrecht Forest and the Neils Forest Camp and Research Center are lands that have been donated to the forestry school. Lubrecht was the gift of Anaconda Copper Mining Co. and the Northern Pacific Railroad in 1937. The Forest Camp near Libby was donated by the J. Neils Lumber Co.

The foresters of MSU are a vitalizing campus force. The students in the forestry school have more spirit and are closer knit than the students at any other school where he has attended or taught, Prof. Robert W. Lange says.

During Conservation Week each spring, the forestry club sponsors lectures at all Missoula grade schools and a day of tree planting in Lubrecht Forest. All of the speakers for the week are MSU forestry students.

The effect and participation of the foresters is not confined to forestry items. The foresters are one of the few academic groups which participate—as a group—in intramural sports and events like Homecoming.

The credit for these activities goes to the forestry club.

The past 50 years of growth and expansion have given the forestry industry over 1,100 MSU-trained foresters. Through this same period MSU has acquired a group of students who "stick together like glue" to educate the children of Missoula about conservation, to give the University students one of the biggest, gayest functions of the year and to support the University.

Museum Includes Indian Scalp, Aepyornis Egg, Mummified Body

By VICKI BURKART
Kaimin Staff Writer

Have you ever seen the mummified remains of a human body? An 1870 Paris original dress? A real Indian scalp? A 14-inch long Aepyornis egg?

If you haven't, visit the University Museum on the third floor of the Fine Arts Building. You'll find all of these items and many more there.

The museum, about which few students seem to know, was created prior to World War I. Many of the items on display were donated, others were purchased.

Museum hours are 3 to 5 p.m. on Mondays through Thursdays, and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. on Sundays. Guided tours are provided.

The tour begins in a room dedicated to Indian life of past years. Five stuffed buffalo, killed in 1883, stand near a hundred-year-old Flathead Indian buffalo hide tepee. Saddles, clothing, cooking utensils and weapons of various Indian tribes are exhibited.

The mummified remains of a 3-year-old boy of the Gros Ventre tribe lays in a glass case. It is believed that the boy died of small pox around 1840.

The largest room is devoted to depicting early frontier life. A kitchen display includes early kitchenware and tools. Toys which children played with in the 1800's are amazingly similar to today's toys.

An old juke box grinds out tunes which used to set Irish Butte miners stomping.

A piano from the first Montana governor's mansion faces the bedroom set imported from Europe by Marcus Daly, Montana Copper King of the Frontier days.

Near an 1870 Paris original owned by a member of the famous Hennessey family, are displayed costumes from the first Shakespearean play presented in Montana in 1886.

A Japanese temple lantern introduces the visitor to the Oriental displays. A Japanese armor suit from the Tokugawa period stands at the entrance. A religious cabinet in front of which an Oriental woman committed hara-kari is surrounded by numerous urns, tapestries from the Ming Dynasty era and other artifacts.

The gun display includes Jim Bridger's old rifle, along with 15th Century Japanese match lock muskets, a World War II German bazooka, and other pieces. Most unusual is a huge cannon—a present to George III from the king of Spain—which was used against the colonists during the Revolutionary War.

Other unique items to be found in the museum include a ring worn by Mary Queen of Scots, the egg of a now extinct huge bird which once inhabited Madagascar, a Greek amphora dating back to 200-300 A.D., an 1880 U.S. Army uniform and the album of the Higgins family, founders of Missoula.

"Our museum should hold anthropological, archaeological, botanical, geological, historical, and zoological collections but our limited space forbids this. We hope to have a central building one day to house all of these displays, most of which are now essentially teaching displays of the various departments," Prof. Robert Turner, museum director, said.

Future exhibits to be displayed in the University Museum include a New Guinea display, a saloon exhibit, and a reconstruction and history of various ghost towns.

Passing Helps Misfits Outplay Candle GI's

Misfits 18, Candle G.I.'s 7

Led by Dale Schwanke's pinpoint passing, and a key interception by Turner Demmons, the Misfits outplayed the Candle G.I.'s 18-7 in intramural touch football yesterday.

Schwanke lofted TD passes to Jim Finlayson and Ron Plummer, sandwiched between Demmons' 20-yard TD return of a misplaced Candle pass.

DSP 2, TX 0

In a California playoff, the Delta Sig offense outpenetrated the Theta Chi defense in four attempts for a 2-0 win after four scoreless quarters.

SX 24, PSK 0

Gary Minster's three first-half touchdown passes were all Sigma Chi needed as they clobbered Phi Sigma Kappa 24-0.

A 60-yard TD pass play from Minster to Brian Johnson highlighted the first-half attack, with L. D. Nybo and Bob Hauck also on the receiving end of six pointers. Hub Zemke booted a first-quarter field goal for the winners in the onslaught.

Foresters 14, Neanderthals 0

With Arden Davis pitching TD passes in the first and third quarters, the Foresters blanked the Neanderthals 14-0. Davis combined with Sheridan Codman early in the game on a 50-yard TD pass play.

A key play in the second Forester TD was Charley "Smoke-jumper" McDonald's 40-yard run-back after picking off a Neanderthal pass.

Two plays later, Davis flipped a 15-yard pass to Tom Sayre for the final Forester tally.

SAE 26, ATO 0

An aerial blitzkrieg by the SAE's Arne Mysse paved the way for a 26-0 win over ATO.

Mysse threw a TD pass to brother Bob Mysse in the first quarter and followed with a 40-yard paydirt connection to Don Krumm. In the final stanza, Mysse lofted TD passes to Bob Vick and Lorne MacKenzie.

SN 6, SPE 0

A third quarter touchdown pass from Gary Peck to Jeff Wollaston covering 15 yards proved to be the winning play as Sigma Nu downed Sigma Phi Epsilon in a close one, 6-0.

Positions Open On Pistol Team

Eighteen students turned out for the MSU Pistol Team and there is room for a few more, Col. M. F. Moucha, professor of military science, said yesterday.

The team is for all students, not just ROTC men, he said. Money for it is appropriated by ASMSU.

The Pistol Team is now shooting .45 caliber pistols outdoors while the weather is good, but will switch to .22 caliber when they shoot indoors, according to Capt. Hardy R. Stone, coach.

Intercollegiate postal matches begin Nov. 1. The team will shoot here and mail the targets to Washington, D.C. The team competes against such teams as the U.S. Military Academy, Navy, Michigan and California in this way.

The club will sponsor a turkey shoot on campus before Thanksgiving and an invitational match at the end of the quarter. Law enforcement agencies and military reserve units in this area will be invited to the match.

Cross Country Team to Meet MSC Bobcats

The MSU cross-country team travels to Bozeman for a meet with the Montana State College Bobcats tomorrow.

The five men going to Bozeman are Lafay Hope, Doug Brown, Martin Ueland, Doug Green and Gary LaFontaine.

MSC ran well last week at a meet in Logan, Utah. MSC's Bill Patterson and Bob Lane both placed in the four-team meet, according to Harry Adams, MSU track coach.

MSU's Doug Brown ran the three-mile in 14:19 last week. This is the best he has run at the golf course track, noted Adams.

The track in Bozeman is 3.4 miles long, he said. MSC won the meet last year.

Grizzlies to Fall Again, So Sayeth the Prophet

By PIGSKIN PROPHET

The Kaimin's version of Nostradamus hit five of five picks last week; here's hoping his cup runneth over with more success:

Big Sky Games

Utah* State 34, Montana State University 13: Still too many holes in the Grizzly line.

Montana State College 20, Arizona State 17: Should be decided on a field goal.

University of Idaho 40, Pacific 12: Like a tank against water pistols.

National Games

Air Force 26, Maryland 20: Isaacson continues bid for nation's No. 1 quarterback.

Pittsburgh 34, West Virginia 17: Panthers maul Mountaineers.

Alabama 28, Tennessee 6: An Alabama twister at a Tennessee waltz.

Texas 21, Arkansas 19: Razorbacks just miss making steaks of Longhorns.

Oklahoma 30, Kansas 21: Sooners do it without Looney.

LSU 17, Kentucky 14: Tigers eke out another close one.

Georgia Tech 26, Auburn 19: Engineer's Lothridge keeps Bobby Dodd smiling.

ALL-AMERICAN GRIZZLIES

The MSU Grizzlies have had 13 men named to one or more All-American teams since 1914, most of them in the honorable mention category. The last was Terry Dillon of the 1962 squad.

Parachute Training Program Offered by Silvertip Skydivers

The MSU Silvertip Skydivers are conducting a training program aimed at teaching the basics of sport parachuting. All University students, girls included, and faculty members may participate.

A $50 fee is charged for the four-week program. The fee entitles a person to use club parachutes and helmets for five training jumps, membership in the Silvertip Skydivers Club, membership in the Parachute Club of America, a comprehensive 40-hour training program and training and supervision through the first five parachute jumps. The fee must be paid by the second training session, Oct. 26.

The first training session is Saturday at 9 a.m. in the Men's Gym. Interested persons should bring paper and pen for taking notes and tennis shoes for practicing parachute landing falls. Girls should wear slacks. Persons who want to take part in the program must attend this first session, Rod Aldrich, a member of the club said.

FRESHMAN TEAM PLAYING WITHOUT RIGHT TACKLE

Head football coach Ray Jenkins needs a right tackle for the freshman football team. The freshmen play the MSC freshmen Saturday, Oct. 26. Jenkins says anyone interested in playing this position or any other line position should report to him or someone on the staff immediately.

Three Intramural Sports to Begin

Intramural golf, bowling and tennis swing into action this weekend.

The golf tournament is split into two weekends this year with 18 being played this Saturday or Sunday. The golfer may choose which day he wishes to play. The remaining 18 holes are to be played next week.

Bowling competition opens Saturday morning and tennis singles get under way Sunday at 9:30 a.m. Tennis doubles are scheduled for Oct. 27.

LEADING GRIZZLY OFFENSIVE ATTACK—Grizzly quarterback Tom Huffer has been supplying much of the punch to the Tips' offensive attack this year. Huffer has completed 30 passes in 53 attempts for a gain of 434 yards and one touchdown. Huffer is a 6-0, 185-pound junior from Maywood, Illinois.

Aggies 'One of Finest'

Grizzlies, Utah State Tangle In Gridiron Skirmish Tomorrow

The Montana State University Grizzlies will try to get back in the win column tomorrow when they meet the Utah State University Aggies on Dornblaser Field at 1:30.

"The Aggie team will be one of the finest ever to appear on Dornblaser Field," head coach Ray Jenkins said yesterday. "They have a very well balanced team with lots of depth at all positions," he continued.

The Aggies have a very versatile quarterback in Bill Munson. He has proven his ability in directing his team to a 3-1 record for the season.

Injured Grizzlies

On the injury list and a questionable starter is center Tom Hauck, who injured a knee in last Saturday's game.

The Grizzlies will be playing without the services of Steve Wood, who still has his leg in a cast. Wood has missed all the games this season. Frank Bain may not play this weekend because of his back. Although he didn't hurt his back last weekend as far as is known, Jenkins said, it has bothered him this week. He will be examined by a doctor today.

The Tips will probably depend tomorrow on the passing arm of quarterback Tom Huffer, who did an outstanding job of passing last weekend against the Idaho State Bengals. He completed 12 of 16 passes in the game.

Jenkins said the Aggies have five or six men who are being watched by the professional teams.

One of the men the Grizzlies will have to stop is Larry Campbell, a 225-pound fullback who is averaging 7.3 yards a carry.

Must Stop Passes

If the Grizzlies are to stop the passing game of Munson, who has completed 60 per cent of his passes this year, they will have to cover two of his favorite receivers, ends Jim McNaughton and Roger Foulk. Another top receiver, who will not see action, is halfback Marv Kendrick, who leads the team with seven receptions for 119 yards, a 17-yard average. He was operated on last Monday for torn knee ligaments.

Jenkins said that the Grizzlies have been working on a couple of defensive weaknesses this week in hopes of stopping the Utah State charge. He said the team will have to cut down on the grassers (missed tackles).

"If we don't correct these weaknesses in our defense we will probably get beaten badly," he said.

Aggie coach Tony Knap isn't taking the Grizzlies lightly. If the Aggie meet the Grizzlies with a "setup" attitude, they'll return to Logan with upset clippings, he said early in the week.

Jenkins said his starting lineup will be the same as last weekend, with the exception of Hauck who may miss if his knee isn't better.

Last year the Grizzlies lost to the Aggies at Logan, 43-20. The Aggies and the Grizzlies have met 29 times since 1904 with the Aggies winning 21 and the Tips 8.

Coach Seeks More Players For Freshman Basketball

Freshman basketball practice is now under way after two weeks of pre-conditioning which included running the mile in less than 5:45.

"We are still looking for more prospects and three or four men playing freshman football are expected to turn out," Tom Flynn, freshman basketball coach, said yesterday.

The first two weeks will be spent on the fundamentals of basketball, he said, because players from the various schools have been taught differently.

The squad doesn't have many tall players but is trying to strengthen its defense by practicing against two 6-8 transfers who are ineligible for varsity play, Flynn said.

"We will use a wide offense this year to draw the big men away from our basket," he explained.

Flynn, who played basketball for McMurray State in Illinois and for Bradley, said he has four or five good prospects. Three of them are from Missoula: Glenn Smith, Doug Bachman and Doug McDonald. Six-foot, six-inch Ed Metz from Arizona and 5-11 guard, Jon King, Cut Bank, also look good, Flynn commented.

The new coach is a graduate assistant and has coached a year of high school ball. He will be assisted by three-year Grizzly letterman Ray Lucien.

The first freshman game will be Dec. 3 with Carroll College. Eleven games are scheduled for the season.

Short Sleeve Sweaters

What would you want with a short sleeve sweater in the winter?

The Hall Tree doesn't know — but we do know that 50 per cent of our back-to-school sweater sales have been short sleeves.

A new shipment of 80 short sleeve sweaters arrived Tuesday, Oct. 8.

527 N. Higgins

The colors we carry in this sweater besides our regular colors are:

Powder Black and Blue; Oyster and Brown; Champagne and Maple Leaf; Black and Ivy; Marine Blue; Heather Grey; Heather Green, and Heather Red.

Whether you have a reason for buying a short sleeve sweater or not, stop by and try several on, this may be reason enough.

Dark Horse Combo?

—by jeff gibson

The Republicans are faced with a difficult situation.

Their leading contender for the presidential nomination, Sen. Barry Goldwater, is beginning to be thought of as a man who can't carry enough of the Midwestern and Southern states in 1964 to offset the expected Kennedy landslide in the industrial states of the Northeast.

Rockefeller, of course, by now has divorced himself from the race, and neither Romney nor Scranton are considered to be well enough known to the rank and file to do well in the general election.

It becomes obvious, then, that the Grand Old Party is going to have to pin its hopes on a winning combination of dark horses in the coming race or face the possibility of becoming a Grand Old Memory.

Boosting Hoover

Recent polls indicate that an increasing number of Republicans are starting to think of retired Commerce Secretary Herbert Hoover as the man to carry their banner in the big campaign. The balancing factor on such a ticket might be the former governor of Minnesota, Harold Stassen, who proved his popularity in the cities not so long ago by giving Richardson Dilworth a real scare in a Philadelphia mayoralty race.

There is, however, a fairly large group of Republicans in the Southwest who claim that Stassen will prove to be a flash-in-the-pan and will fail the party when he is needed most.

This conservative faction of the G.O.P., largely financed by well-to-do oilmen, is loudly booming John Nance (Cactus Jack) Garner for the vice presidency. The reasoning behind this drive is that Garner, a Texas boy like Vice President Jackson, is frequently in the public eye and got a good press last year on his 93rd birthday.

Cactus Jack also is well-known to Westerners through his nephew, James (Maverick) Garner, of California. The younger Garner has been spoken of in connection with the attorney-general post. He acquired the nickname "Maverick" when he asserted his independence of the Old Guard last August and participated in the Washington civil rights parade.

What About Alf?

Another dark horse who many feel would be an ideal replacement for Vice President Jones is Alf Landon.

Landon, like Sen. Morse of Oregon, has had some trouble in the past deciding to which party he owes his allegiance. As the man responsible for FDR's biggest victory he has earned the lasting ill-will of several important Republicans.

But Landon now seems to be firmly in the Republican column and is expected to be heard from in the months before, if not after, the convention.

It is obvious, then, that the Democratically-inspired rumor that "Kennedy can't be beaten" is not necessarily true.

The Republican party has a vast reservoir of little-known, but highly able talent.

All that remains now is for the forward-looking Republicans to convince their party hacks, party cynics and party poopers that a big win is possible, indeed likely, if this reservoir is only tapped.

Departments Expand Curricula To Keep Pace With University

By DIANE HILL
Kaimin Staff Writer

To keep pace with the expanding university, the various departments are adding new courses to their curricula, reports Leo Smith, registrar.

Business Administration

The business administration school is offering three new courses. Accounting Theory 412 is a critical examination of accounting postulates and principles underlying current account procedures.

Students are placed with public accounting firms to receive practical training in the field under Accounting Internship 417.

There is also a course dealing with pricing strategy and competition in marketing as well as administrative marketing problems. This course is listed under Pricing Policies and Practices 462 in the catalog.

Education

Among the changes in the education department is the reorganization of Science for Elementary Teachers 125-6-7. Offered to elementary ed majors only, it includes a survey of physical and biological sciences and a study of the plant and animal kingdoms.

Another new course for education majors is Internship 505. It involves supervised field experiences in administration, guidance, special education and curriculum.

Three counseling courses are also scheduled for this department. The theories of counseling methods and strategies plus a study of the effects on the school counselor will be covered in Advanced Counseling Theory 587.

Students participate in the capacity as counselor for four hours a week Education 588.

Psychology

Two additional courses will be added to the summer curriculum in psychology. The principles of motivation, frustration, conflict and its effect on the process of counseling will be studied in Psychology of Adjustment 535.

A survey of statistics as applied to research, literature and measurement in counseling and guidance is to be taught in Statistics for Counselors 545.

Physical Education

The physical education department offers a course in the Foundations of Physical Education for graduate students. Current literature, current problems of P.E. and the effects of exercise on body function and behavior will be studied.

History

The Civil War and Reconstruction course was added by the history department to fill the gap between the Jeffersonian Era in history and recent American history.

Home Economics

The artistic and economic factors in selecting clothes will be studied in Home Economics 151.

Mathematics

With the acquisition of the new computer in the mathematics department, five new courses have been added. These include Intuitive Geometry 220, Digital Computers and Coding 250, Numerical Analysis 471-3 and Introduction to Functions of a Complex Variable 409-411-412.

Another course to be offered every other year is called Measure and Integration 551-3.

More changes are expected during the next two years, according to Mr. Smith.

The brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon announce with deep regret the death of brother Patrick Murphy who passed away Wednesday afternoon after a brief illness. The late Mr. Murphy was a transfer student from Florida A and M where he had been active in the life of his fraternity.

MSU Speech Team Participates In Yellowstone Forensic Meet

The MSU debaters attended the Yellowstone Forensic Tournament this week at Eastern Montana College of Education.

The tournament included debate, extemporaneous speaking and oral interpretation of literature. Ralph Y. McGinnis, director of intercollegiate speech activities accompanied four students from MSU to Billings.

All of the students attending the tournament took part in debate and one other individual contest. The MSU debaters are: Joe Hampson who took part in the Lincoln-Douglas Debates, Gary Peterson who spoke extemporaneously, Amy Custer who participated in parliamentary procedure and Kathleen Williams who gave an oral interpretation.

WEDDING BELLS WILL RING FOR GOVERNOR'S DAUGHTER

HELENA (AP)—Wedding bells are scheduled to ring Saturday in Helena for Lorna Lee Babcock, 21, daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Tim Babcock, and Roger J. Mennie, 21-year-old Billings college student.

A marriage license was issued the pair in Billings.

Miss Babcock listed her occupation as a dental assistant.

The wedding will be held at St. John's Lutheran Church at 2 p.m.

Students Suspected in Theft Of Carpets From TV Station

Four carpets valued at $55 each were stolen from the downtown area last weekend, according to Socs Vratiss, general manager of KMSO-TV.

The carpets, property of KMSO, are part of the station's advertising promotion.

Last spring three University students were caught stealing similar carpets downtown.

"We are not pointing the accusing finger at anyone," Mr. Vratiss said in a letter to Andrew C. Cogswell, Dean of Students, "however, it is sufficient to say that throughout the long summer we had absolutely no problems."

Dean Cogswell said, "I wish I didn't have to receive letters like this."

Mr. Cogswell said that he receives many phone calls and a few letters throughout the year. Most of these deal with students writing bad checks, he said.

Mr. Cogswell said he feels that the University has a well-behaved student body and added that he

Married Students Invited to Dine

Today, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the College Inn, married students may enjoy a smorgasbord, one of the special activities planned for Student Union Week.

Joe Gerbase, manager of the College Inn, said that the meal will include ham, a seafood casserole, potato salad, cheeses, relishes, dessert and beverages. The price will be $1.50 per person.

Music will be provided for dancing after the smorgasbord.

Gerbase also said that if the smorgasbord is a success, the Student Union may have more this year.

Negro Leader Cites Civil Rights Setbacks

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said Thursday the summer's demonstrations produced some resentment among white Northerners and brought a temporary setback to his movement.

"But the Negro revolution has revealed to many persons in the North that they had more deep-seated prejudices than they realized," King said.

"And we can never have meaningful integration until these prejudices are realized and discarded."

King was asked if this negative reaction outside the South portended the throttling of his eight-year fight against segregation.

"This is a kind of temporary setback necessary to make the journey ahead. Our only reaction is to move steadily forward," he replied.

King said there were these factors working in favor of his efforts:

"The growing industrialization of the South; and a recognition by young Southern white businessmen of the adverse effect of bigotry on the economy."

"The rolling tide of public opinion which will force the federal government to take a strong stand."

"And the new determination of the Negro himself. This is the most encouraging factor—even in the rural areas."

"Out of this situation, the church has come to see its role in the struggle. The church may emerge as the creative majority which will lead the nation to the higher road of morality," he said.

Algerian Troops Leave Outposts

ALGIERS (AP) — Algerian troops have pulled back from two Sahara outposts after four days of fighting in the undeclared war with Morocco, the Algerian-run state radio announced today.

Peace talks to settle the dispute were suspended.

A reporter for the state radio said that Algerian forces withdrew 10 miles.

Troops Surprise Communist Camp

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Communist band which chose to camp in a rice paddy area only 15 miles west of Saigon got a surprise from the sky Thursday.

U.S. helicopters landed 60 South Vietnamese troops for an attack on the Viet Cong guerrillas while other helicopters flew air support. The troops captured 12 guerrillas. They said they killed five others and wounded a dozen.

Officials said there were no casualties among the Vietnamese and American raiders, though one of the helicopters was hit six times by Communist ground fire and one bullet ripped through the fuselage of another.

Nobels in Medicine Awarded to Three

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two British scientists and an Australian physiologist won the Nobel prize in medicine Thursday for unlocking some of the secrets of man's nervous system.

Sharing the record prize of 265,000 Swedish crowns ($51,158) are:

Andrew Fielding Huxley, 45, professor of physiology at University College, London; Alan Lloyd Hodgkin, 46, Royal Society research professor at Cambridge, and Sir John Carew Eccles, 60, professor of physiology at Australian National University, Canberra.

Dullenty Heads YAF Committee

Jim Dullenty, MSU graduate and former YAF chapter president, has been named co-chairman of the Committee to Combat Aid to Communism.

The committee was formed by Young Americans for Freedom at a meeting in Washington, D. C. Dullenty, who is chairman of the YAF for Montana, shares the committee chairmanship with Fred Coldren, YAF chairman for Kansas.

The Committee to Combat Aid to Communism was formed specifically to oppose the sale of wheat to Russia and other Communist nations.

Commenting on the proposed sale of wheat to Russia, Dullenty said, "This is a calculated act of appeasement by the Kennedy administration."

He added, "The sale of wheat to the communists by the administration indicates our leaders do not understand or do not want to understand the nature of the cold war."

Dullenty is employed as a reporter with the Williston, N. D. war."

Peace Corps: Rewards Amid Poverty

By JIM CRANE
Kaimin Staff Writer

Picture a child, 2 years old, who weighs less than an American child, 4 months old. Add to this a staphylococcus infection which covers the child's body. The child is so ravaged by disease and malnutrition that he looks like a tiny, wrinkled old man.

Not a pretty thought, is it?

Any of the 6,633 Peace Corps volunteers probably could tell a similar story of poverty and squalor in any of the 47 countries that have asked the Peace Corps for help.

Why, then, do men and women join the Peace Corps?

"I couldn't justify not joining the Peace Corps considering the world I felt," Roger Hord, a member of the Corps recruiting team which was here this week, said.

He explained that he believed in what the Peace Corps was doing and felt obligated to do what he could to further its purposes.

"I'm more excited about the Peace Corps now than I was when I joined," he said.

Conditions in countries where the Peace Corps is working won't always be so bad. With a little penicillin, soap and good food a starving, sickly child can become a healthy, happy child.

Here's where the Peace Corps enters. Volunteer nurses and doctors are helping people all over the world to learn to protect themselves from disease.

The Peace Corps doesn't stop here. Volunteers are building roads, teaching schools, working with farmers and doing community development work.

Mr. Hord, a bricklayer, spent his two-year term in East Pakistan where he helped plan and supervise the building of 127 miles of roads, 29 dams, 14 bridges and 7 miles of drainage canals.

The building of these dams and canals has enabled the farmers to grow three crops of rice a year where they could only grow one crop before, according to Mr. Hord.

"Today they (the Pakistanis) cannot afford pencils for their children to go to school," Mr.

Hord said, "but, they will triple their income in three years."

The Peace Corps has been so successful that other countries, among them Germany and Japan, are considering setting up similar programs.

The Colombo Plan, sponsored by the United Nations and in effect since the Korean conflict, works like the Peace Corps except that the people taking part in the program are paid by the host government and come from many different countries, Mr. Hord said.

Trainees for the Peace Corps take eight to 12 weeks training in languages, traditions, current affairs and technical skills before they officially become volunteers.

Volunteers are stationed in South Africa, Africa, Asia and the Middle East, Mr. Howard said.

During the time the recruiting team was here earlier in the week, 32 people indicated their interest in joining the Peace Corps by filling out information sheets and taking personal aptitude tests.

Anyone over 18 with no dependents under 18 can join the Peace Corps, provided they pass the physical and mental requirements.

Information on the Peace Corps can be obtained from Vedder Gilbert, Peace Corps liaison officer, or from the Post Office.

Would the Real Jenkins
Effigy Please Hang Up?

by oedipus II

Dear Oed,

How come we lost the homecoming game last Saturday?
Football Star

Dear Foot,

Only a few people know this, but last Thursday the effigy that was hanged was actually the real coach Jenkins, and the coach you saw walking the sidelines in spiked shoes Saturday was actually the real effigy. See? And incidentally, re Mr. Jenkins remark about having ex-President Newburn beside him, well, Mr. Jenkins needn't have worried. Precisely the same thing did happen to Mr. Newburn early in his career. He too was hung in place of an effigy. However, Mr. Newburn was only slightly blue and still kicking when someone happened along and cut him down.

Dear Oed,

About this pink elephant thing, what do you think? Should our float have been disqualified?

Kappa-Craig

Dear K. C.,

I have it on very good authority that your float was not disqualified. It was completely overlooked. After all, who ever takes a pink elephant seriously? By the way, I think it would have been much more practical and profitable if you had burned the person or persons responsible for that ridiculous "Ten persons complementing a float" (or whatever it was) rule—I still don't understand it myself—rather than burning the elephant in the alley.

Dear Oed,

Please help me! I'm being ostracized by my fraternity brothers because I allegedly violated rush rules. What happened is that on the way to school the other morning I hit this guy with my car and broke his leg. After a moment of indecision, I helped him into my car and gave him a ride to the infirmary. Well, somebody from this other fraternity saw me carrying him into the health center and went screaming to IFC that I was illegally rushing this guy that they were interested in. Now my house has been fined and all the guys say it was my fault and they're not going to speak to me for three weeks. What can I do?

Isolated Greek

Dear Iso,

As I see it, it isn't so much a question of what-can-you-do-now as what-you-should-have-done then. You should have backed up and run over him again crippling him just enough so that he couldn't crawl out of the way and left him so that cars from at least two other fraternities would run over him. Eventually an independent would have come along with a wheelbarrow and taken him in for treatment. In this way no one could have said which fraternity influenced this young man the most, and, of course, you can't ostracize an independent.

University Gets Grant of $22,447 For Speech and Hearing Clinic

MSU has received a $22,447 grant from the Vocational Rehabilitation Administration to support a project headed by Charles D. Parker, director of the Speech and Hearing Clinic and associate professor of speech pathology and audiology.

This grant makes it possible to extend the clinic work by providing for "an increased and more diverse clinical load for student training, funds to support qualified graduate students in the field and the addition to the staff of an instructor in speech pathology and audiology who also does clinical work," Mr. Parker said.

Connie R. Christenson, who has been a speech and hearing therapist at the Montana Rehabilitation Center, Great Falls, for the last four years, was selected to fill this teacher-therapist position. Miss Christenson received her master's degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1959.

The current grant, which will run through next August, is part of a five-year grant given to the University in 1962. It was received after a professional reviewing board approved MSU's application.

Prof. Chessin Returns From Research Tour

Meyer Chessin, professor of the MSU botany department, recently toured research laboratories at the University of Arizona and the University of California at Los Angeles.

Mr. Chessin gave two seminars on the cactus virus research conducted in his MSU laboratory since 1958. He also collected cactus material from the Saguaro National Monument for this investigation.

Chessin is presently studying a virus disease related to the tobacco mosaic, which leaves no external effect on the cactus. Apparently, only cultivated plants acquire this virus, which can be discovered by examination of the plant cells.

$1,200 Fellowship Will Be Awarded For Recruitment

A $1,200 fellowship will be awarded to a graduate student or faculty member in the West doing research in the fields of college recruitment and placement.

The annual Vera Christie Graduate Fellowship for college graduates or qualified faculty members is available to a student or faculty member at MSU, said Charles E. Hood, campus placement director.

The fellowship is sponsored annually by the Western College Placement Association of which MSU is a member. Its purpose is to encourage research in the philosophy, standards, practices and objectives of recruitment and placement.

The award allows the recipient to hold other fellowships, assistantships or other employment.

Students and faculty members interested in applying for the fellowship may obtain more details from Mrs. Maxine Wilson in LA130. The final date for submitting applications is Dec. 2.

Corbin and Triangle

Leslie Griffin, Luckii Ludwig Elected Dormitory Presidents

Leslie Griffin and Luckii Ludwig have been elected presidents of Triangle and Corbin Hall respectively.

Miss Griffin, freshman, heads the two freshmen women's dormitories, Brantly and North Corbin. Other officers are: Heidi Clark, secretary; Joanne Hacker, treasurer; and Sandy Pierce, Central Board representative for Triangle. Vice presidents have not been elected.

Triangle, the governing body of the freshmen women, includes all freshmen women living on campus.

Miss Ludwig, junior, heads the upperclass women's dormitory, Corbin Hall. Other officers are: Judy Rudin, vice president; Mary Louderback, secretary-treasurer; Sue Jensen, social chairman; Kathy Price, AWS representative, and Kathy Tucker, WRA representative.

Application Deadlines Approach For Scholarships and Exams

Many grants, scholarships and fellowships are available to students at MSU. The deadlines for applying for many of these and occupation exams are this quarter.

Tuesday is the last day a student may apply for a Marshall Scholarship. The scholarships are awarded each year to 24 students from the United States who may study at any British university. The scholarship offers free tuition, fares, living and other allowances.

Students interested in the Fulbright scholarships should see Prof. Robert Burgess.

Deadline for students to apply for entrance to the University of Oregon, Portland, Dental School is Oct. 31. Applications may be obtained by writing to the U of O registrar.

The first Law School Admission Test will be given Nov. 9. It also will be given on Feb. 8, April 18 and Aug. 1. The test is required for entrance to the MSU Law School. Robert E. Sullivan, Dean of the Law School, said because the law school selects its freshman class the spring preceding entrance, candidates should take the test in November or February.

Sample questions, registration information and registration forms are included in a Bulletin of Information. Deadline for application for the first test is Oct. 26.

Applicants can obtain this material from Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J.

Dec. 1 is the final date for the Danforth Fellowship. This is a post-doctoral fellowship to encourage the relation of scholarship in religion to scholarship in other fields of study. Grants are available to scholars in the humanities, social and natural sciences for a year of study in religion or to religion scholars for a year of study in another field. Prof. Earl Lory has further information about this fellowship.

The Federal Service Entrance Examinations are offered numerous times between now and April. Students who desire to work for the government should ask the Placement Center for additional information.

Students interested in additional tests should contact the Placement Center for information.
